John Osburn Resigns As Elba Supt. Of Education

John W. Osburn, Superintendent of Education of the Elba City School System for the past four years, announced his resignation on Wednesday, May 15, and stated the resignation would be effective at 4 p.m. on June 7, 1985. Osburn's resignation came only hours after he had been named director of the Regional Inservice Education Center in the School of Education at Troy State University. As the program's director, Osburn will work with 22 school systems in south Alabama in assisting with the continuing professional training and growth of approximately 2700 teachers. The program was created by the governor's Education Reform Program and the center at Troy State is one of seven established across the state.

The Elba City Board of Education met in special session Wednesday morning at 10:45 to officially act on the resignation, which was accepted. The board discussed the upcoming vacancy and stated it would begin taking applications immediatel In a letter to the faculty and staff of the Elba City School System,

Osburn stated, "Please know that the only reason for such a decision on my part is to take advantage of a professional opportunity which I feel I cannot pass up. I sincerely mean it when I say I have thoroughly enjoyed the relationship with each one of you over the past four years.' After the meeting, Osburn reported he had deliberated on accepting the position for six months and came to the decision that professionally it was an offer he couldn't pass up.

"I am grateful to all the board members, educators and parents with which I've been involved for giving me the opportunity to serve as superintendent," Osburn said. "I've thoroughly enjoyed the past four years, which have been a time of professional growth for me. I look forward to the challenge facing me and also look forward to working at such a fine institution as Troy State." Osburn stated he will continue to live in Elba and be an active part

John W. Osburn, Superintendent of Education of the Elba City School System for the past four years, announced his resignation on Wednesday, May 15, and stated the resignation would be effective at 4 p.m. on June 7, 1985.

Osburn's resignation came only hours after he had been named director of the Regional Inservice Education Center in the School of Education at Troy State University. As the program's director, Osburn will work with 22 school systems in south Alabama in assisting with the continuing professional training and growth of approximately 2700 teachers. The program was created by the governor's Education Reform Program and the center at Troy State is one of seven established across the state.

The Elba City Board of Education met in special session Wednesday morning at 10:45 to officially act on the resignation, which was accepted. The board discussed the upcoming vacancy and stated it would begin taking applications immediately In a letter to the faculty and staff of the Elba City School System,

Osburn stated, "Please know that the only reason for such a decision on my part is to take advantage of a professional opportunity which I feel I cannot pass up. I sincerely mean it when I say I have thoroughly enjoyed the relationship with each one of you over the past four years.' After the meeting, Osburn reported he had deliberated on accepting the position for six months and came to the decision that professionally it was an offer he couldn't pass up.

"I am grateful to all the board members, educators and parents with which I've been involved for giving me the opportunity to serve as superintendent," Osburn said. "I've thoroughly enjoyed the past four years, which have been a time of professional growth for me. I look forward to the challenge facing me and also look forward to working at such a fine institution as Troy State.' Osburn stated he will continue to live in Elba and be an active part

I sincerely mean it when I say I have thoroughly enjoyed the relationship with each one of you over the past four years.' After the meeting, Osburn reported he had deliberated on accepting the position for six months and came to the decision that professionally it was an offer he couldn't pass up.

"I am grateful to all the board members, educators and parents with which I've been involved for giving me the opportunity to serve as superintendent," Osburn said. "I've thoroughly enjoyed the past four years, which have been a time of professional growth for me. STREAK IN DOCUMENT

Sonny Inman works with the rescue squad and has all the schooling and such to make him qualified to do so. Being retired and drawing all that good "easy money" he gets more than his share of calls for rescue squad work. Recently he agreed to stand by at the 4-H rally held at the Elba football stadium. He thought it was a one-hour event, but anyone who has ever attended knows that ain't so. However, Inman likes children almost as well as yours truly and after it was all over he came away happy and bragging on those fine youngsters. Now Sonny sent a bunch of his own through there several years ago, and being a typical parent thinks they were pretty good children, but that afternoon he probably would have admitted this bunch is even better!

The politicking is over and the vote is in on the oil lease trust fund amendment. We cast our vote in the yes column, noting the argument of the Association of County Commissioners was that "we ain't getting our share" didn't hold water because whoever said they had a share? WE agree with their argument that they need money, 'cause we hear them crying about it at every meeting. But if they had taken the ten percent offered they would now be getting some money. Also, their argument that the Alabama legislature does a poor job of handling the money is true; but then we know some county officials who get their expense money and go on trips charged to us taxpayers also . . . in fact some right here in Coffee County.

These county commissioners who voted to pay for all members to attend a national convention are in the same group which groans about not having any money to do anything. They don't have the money to buy a truck for the forestry department but even before taking office they were requesting their monthly expense allowance be increased because they couldn't afford to serve for the pay the law allows and the amount they KNEW the office paid before they ran for it. You see, they asked for the increase in expenses because Alabama law doesn't allow pay increases during an elected official's

Thank goodness we don't live in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania! Law enforcement officers in that city chose to burn down a whole neighborhood to "smoke out" a group of radicals who were living in one of the houses. In defense of the law officers, I don't think they intended to burn the whole neighborhood, but it just happened. When the fire started and residents of the targeted house reportedly continued to shoot at law officers, the firemen couldn't put out the flames. Much to our distress, at least one young child was injured in the fire. Now this youngster had nothing to do with the debate on either side, but she is in the hospital with the burns. We like children and it hurts us when one of them is hurt.

We got the chance to wet a fish hook Saturday afternoon late and had a few hours of enjoyment (and frustration). The bream were hitting our popping bugs a bit slow, but we did wind up with a mess of nice-size fish. One incident will stick with us a long time, however. As slow as the fish were biting, some ol' big ones were sucking in our orange bug with a sound like a short, wet kiss. Well, we had caught a couple of bedding bulls way up under the overhanging bushes when we missed one that "kissed" like he was awful big and we got excited. When we flopped our line back up there, aiming at that little pocket under that bush and next to the tilted tree . . . we got hung about three feet above the water. A quick snatch got the line back but the light leader broke and the bug fell to the water. By the time it hit, that ol' rascal sucked it in and was gone! He will probably die with that cork-hook-fuzz in his mouth and we will never know just how big he really was.

In Maine state prosecutors have asked Sears, Roebuck and Company for details on their maintenance service agreements. They contend it just duplicates existing agreements with makers of major appliances. We don't doubt this, but don't see any problem with that. We are offered a warranty by a major firm and it is . . shall we say underwritten by another major firm . Sears. This is little different from a deal offered by the major automobile companies where you buy a new or used car and then a 24-month policy for repairs. Actually, part of that 24-month policy period is already covered either by the manufacturer or by the car dealer himself. This is all reassuring to this country boy and rather than considering a lawsuit, I just say thanks Regardless of who makes a product, us consumers want to buy from a firm that will help us if something goes wrong - and believe me, sooner or later something will go wrong. Let's don't kill the greatest key to success we have ever known -- service after the sale - whether it be Sears or the 'Mom-and-Pop' who are sales, service and everything else themselves.

The Dixie Youth and Babe Ruth Baseball League seasons are underway and once again this summer I'll pick a "Player of the Week" in each league. I'll examine the scorebooks closely when I write up the games and talk with the umpires, then make my picks. Since the season is already one-and-a-half weeks old, this week I'll honor two players in each league .

DIXIE YOUTH LEAGUE - the honorees are Kyle Dubose and Eddie Disotell. Kyle, of the Pirates, got seven hits in 11 at-bats, including three home-runs and a double. Eddie, of the Yankees, picked up two wins on the mound as he pitched eight innings and allowed only seven hits and six runs while striking out 15 batters.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE - the honorees are Greg Hanchey and Leon Coleman. Hanchey, of the Dodgers, won two games on the mound as he pitched 12 innings and allowed 12 hits and nine runs, while striking out 11 batters. He also got five hits in nine at-bats to lead his team at the plate. Leon, of the A's, was red hot at the plate as he got nine hits in 10 at-bats and

The Elba Clipper and Foxfire Sporting Goods will co-sponsor Player-of-the-Week trophies each week to the honored players; so practice hard and you might just win a trophy for yourself!

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation sponsored a benefit softball tournament in Elba last weekend and 12 teams competed, with Mossy Grove claiming first place. The tourney was highly competitive and featured several high-powered teams, and most important, the tourney raised much needed funds to help in the fight against cystic fibrosis.

The softball season is underway and it looks like all the leagues will be ompetitive and fun to watch. The Elba Exchange Bank and Cook Chevrolet are the teams to beat in the men's league; the Royal Classics and the Bandits are favored in the women's league, while the church league is up for grabs. The leagues play on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, so go out and watch some of the action.
